What is Digital Learning Day?

On February 22, 2018, California's Community Colleges will join in on a national celebration of digital learning. @ONE will coordinate this free, one-day conference, which will showcase innovations in teaching and learning through online presentations and panels with "learning clusters" organized throughout the state.

Questions that may be explored:

What new literacies are in demand in our digital era?

How are faculty using digital tools to personalize student learning?

How can faculty use mobile learning to empower our underserved students?

What opportunities does digital writing hold for student engagement?
